IAP

Intelligent Announcement Player

Imagine the technology:

The IAP runs on a computer with a sound card to record and play all of your public address announcements. The software runs in the background so that the computer can still be used normally.

Imagine the automation:

The IAP will automatically play announcements at set times or specified intervals, fade background music when announcements play and automatically adjust the volume for noisier times of the day. Your studio can also upload your announcements automatically, via the Internet.

Imagine the flexibility:

Announcements can be scheduled to expire or commence on set dates or times and set to play only on fixed days of the week. You can connect an external music source or page microphone if required. The IAP can also be accessed from anywhere on your computer network.
